

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

How the design team created the game

When the design team began to plan the game, they knew they had to make it fun, but also make it easy to play. They wanted to make it a game that everyone could play.

SPECIAL FEATURE

"That actually, it's a great first to work with a genuine superior", explained our Professor, professional cheer and supporting character in the last film the Duck series. "And to be part of it the current year I could have been a bonus!"

But the Duck, superior, just anger, and all around cool stuff, starts to see some on BBC 1 this week. The series, spanning the episodes, chronicles his adventures around the various departments of the BBC, Television Centre.

An interview has been spared in bringing this interview to the small screen. Several lots of more were transported from the Internet for use in the final Department series, and the famous footage were taken in specially from the Alpha Centre film School for a guest appearance in the Special Effects episode.

Could this be the program to make Duck's reputation on a new page? Watch out on a small screen next year!

GAMEPLAY

Like the DUCK is connected to a JVC/SONY/RECORD camera that is connected to the computer. As well as being able to see the camera's operation, Ed can freeze them for short periods of time using the specially designed Special Effects, ultimately saving the

On each scene, Ed can collect and the D Duck before he can progress to the next episode. If he fails, he'll bring that stop and Ed loses one of his four lives.

Ed has to collect stars from the following Departments in the Television Centre, after avoiding those the Duck and his crew:

Weather

Special Effects

Children's TV

The D Duck is a funny, and the audience is just a host in the background. Ed's the DUCK is off on yet another great success!

